EXCITING DAY AT COLUMBIA

HOFFMAN WINS HANDICAP AFTER RUNNING AWAY FOR NEARLY THREE MILES.

Jockey Gordon in Serious Condition as Result of Fall from Hannah Louise-Jockey Hopkins Comes Out of Hoffman Episode with Severe Injury.

Columbia, S. C., December 13.—Today's racing was replete with incident and furnished keen excitement for another good sized attendance. The main happening out of the ordinary came in the handicab, in which Hoffman, Rose Queen and Donau were the contestants, following the withdrawal of Marjoric A. Seneca and Madman. Hoffman was the favorite and was well backed. At the barrier, Hopkins momentarily lost control of him and the horse crashed through the inner fence, falling heavily. He scrambled to his feet and circled the track nearly three times before he was caught, Meanwhile the odds against him had lengthened to 30 to 1 straight and six to 1 place, it being generally regarded that his chances of finishing in front of Rose Queen and Donau were practically nil. Hoffman's owner pleaded with the stewards to sanction the horse's withdrawal, but to this they would not consent. Hopkins, in falling, had sustained bainful, but not necessarily severe, injuries, although sufficient to incapacitate him from again mounting. C. Turner was substituted and was instructed to ease up the horse immediately after the rise of the barrier. The rider found the horse willing and he maintained a forward position until the stretch was reached, where he aroused the crowd by steadily drawing out and won anidst tumultuous cheers. Rose Queen landed second money, with Donau beaten off. Hoffman's performance was regarded as phenomenal. An accident in the third race, which may be attended with grave results, put a damper on the sport. Jockey Gordon, riding Hannah Louise, was unseated, due to crowding because of the big field of starters on the narrow track. He was rushed with all speed to a nearby hospital and is considered to be in a precarious condition. His injuries include several crushed ribs, a fractured shoulder and probable internal trouble.

The novelty race in which men, horses and an automobile engaged at handicap distances, was a farcical affair. The men were supposed to run 500 yards, Elizabeth Harwood and Cu Bon over the futurity a sunner. The Bedwell mare was at a prohibitive Perice.

Herbert Turner, in the sixth race, was intended as the medium for a great coup. Many messages found their way to the track from New York and other points during the fore part of the day announcing that he was being backed with rare confidence. In a former start, lockey Ambrose had kept him sharply restrained almost throughout. In today's running he was allowed to set a fast pace until the three-quarters post was reached, where he quit and he finished a distant trailer.

Lewis added another purse to Catesby Woodford's credit when he won the second race after leading at the way.

Lewis added another purse to Catesby Woodford's credit when he won the second race after leading all the way.

The injuries of jockey Hopkins probably will keep him out of the saddle for several days. He received a deep gash in his right forearm from falling against the fence and also lacerated his hands badly. The fences, particularly those on the inside, are so low that horses easily fail over them.

W. P. Burch wrote that he would ship his string of racers, now resting at Benning, to Charleston. It is understood that Mr. Burch will be one of the officials at the Charleston track.

A. L. Kirby sent Princess Industry and Sir Dawn to Charleston today. He will increase his stable shortly by the addition of several yearlings from Kentneky.

WHERE THE THOROUGHBRED SHINES.

Progress has been the watchword of the farmer throughout this country (the United States) for the past dozen years. Sometimes it has been through irrigation, which could be taken advantage of by only a comparatively few thousands of persons; sometimes, through conservation, which would perpetuate streams and forests. But until within the past few years the farmer paid practically no attention whatever to what was, and what is, one of the nost valuable assets that the farm has, and that is the horse.

petuate streams and forests. But until within the past few years the farmer paid practically no attention whatever to what was, and what is, one of the most valuable assets that the farm has, and that is the horse.

He is one of the few farm products which perpenates. Natural products do their work, but theirs is the work of a season or at the most of a year. That of the horse continues for a generation. He is the communication between the farmer and his market; or, at least, between the farm and the railroads, and not merely a convenience but a necessity. The farmer, it is also one of his crops, and then comes the question of what quality of horse is the better for the purpose of farm work. Two requirements the farmer exacts. The first necessarily will be that the horse shall be one of general utility, and the next is that it will be profitable as a product of his farm, with reference to his salable quality. On both these matters of qualification there can be no question as to the value of the infusion of thoroughbred blood. It assimilates readily and enriches all other bloods. More than that—and this point is one of importance to the breeder, whether he be a man of ordinary means or one who has a pretentious establishment—the thoroughbred is pre-eminently a horse of early maturity. He is a quicker asset to his owner, whether the owner needs him for services on the farm or in the city, or merely for the sales market.

This is not advocacy of the thoroughbred as a work horse himself, but a statement of the value of his blood in building up a high class of utility horse, but as statement of the value of his blood in building up a high class of utility horse. There can be no dispute as to his being the basic blood—blood that has come down untarnished through the centuries. Indeed, for more than two hundred years, he was the pampered one of his race. He was not permitted to mix with his cousin of commerce. But nearly a century ago France, Germany and the need not only of a superior cavalry horse, but also the abso

THIRTY LEADING MONEY-WINNING OWNERS OF 1911

The stable accounts of the American winning owners of 1911 are practically made up. Such racing as bains to be disposed of this mouth will serve to swell the stable winnings of some of the thirty leaders, hardly in sums sufficient to advance their positions importantly. Sam Hildreth will for the third time are as the leading American turfman, but probably for the last time. His powerful stable has been sold the reported price of $100,000 and its horses will probably race in England next year for their new ner, with the certainty that, as a rule, they will be so handicapped as to have but little chance of wing any races of importance. To date the thirty leading owners and the sums won by their horses are as laws:

finest, hardiest, most valuable general mose world. He has bone and utility, has sureness of foot, is extraordinarily intelligent and has speed at any gait.

If bred for army purposes, he is equally serviceable for cavairy or for artillery. If he is in cavairy, his instincts aid him. If he is on artillery, his natural gait, the gallop, sustains him. The gun horse is, of necessity, a horse that gallops, and the gallop is the natural gait of the thoroughbred.

But not all of the thoroughbreds bred on the farm may be bought for army horses. The Canadian army today lacks many thousands of horses, not only for remounts, but also for ordinary service. They would rather buy at home than elsewhere, but there is no source of supply at present. France, which unquestionably has one of the finest cavairy services in the world, cut loose from the making of the thoroughbred a mere idler, and sent him for duty to Brittany and the Marne and Toulouse and Versailles, until today it has, through the dissemination of thorough-bred blood, not only the best cavairy service in the world, but the finest general type of service horse.

England, the first western home of the thoroughbred cared little, in the early 'seventies, for her cavalry. France, on the contrary, in those days, with a view to the conquering of Europe, encouraged the development of the horse. France wanted a cavalry horse, it would be a horse of bone, of action, of stamina and longevity, and oll over the length and the breadth of the land it placed the thoroughbred. The government cared naught for the cost. And the cavalry of France and the horses of France on the farms have become proverbial for their utility.

Germany was the first of the European powers to follow France, though at more than a measurable distance. France, when it found that Germany might bid against her for the great thoroughbreds of the world, set to work and distributed the thoroughbred among her farmers at a nominal price. She established a record of the mares that were served by her thoroughbreds, so that when remounts were needed she could have them with perfect record of their paternity. The book, which is known as the record of the demi-sang, is as perfect as are the Stud Books of the England, up to this time, the thoroughbre had been largely an idol. He was used for racing

Books of the English Jockey Club.
With England, up to this time, the thoroughbred had been largely an idol. He was used for racing purposes only. France first saw in him a horse of general utility, and then came Germany that paid $100,000 for Ard Patrick, and Russia that gave $125,000 for Gatlee More. Austria followed, and then came the Argentine with its $150,000 each for Diamond Jubilee, Jardy and Cyllene. Italy and Spain and Japan and Turkey and Brazil paid tribute to the thoroughbred and in the aggregate they spent more than $3,000,000 in the purchase of thoroughbreds.

Spain and Japan and Turkey and Bazzil paid tributed and Japan and Turkey and Bazzil paid tributed more than $3,000,000 in the purchase of thorough breds.

Not all of this was for the purchase of the thoroughbreds as war or as a cavalry horse. It was to introduce him into their countries. It was came the horse of utility. War seldom came, but when it did it was the horse with thoroughbred blood in him that was accepted.

Russia was one of the last of the powers to start amproving the size and the breed of its cavalry and the start of the constant of the contribution of the did type of the Cossack pony. Then, warned by the work of being done by all the purchase of the contributions of the contribution of the contributi class hunter, but those which would produce useful animals suitable for army purposes, and in connection with this subject I have always recommended farmers to breed from their light active cart mares if the services of a good thoroughbred sire could be received.

If the services of a good thoroughbred sire could be secured.

"I have seen the best results from breeding in this way, for many excellent hunters have been got by thoroughbred horses out of cart mares, and I have known these sold for large sums of money. And curiously in many cases they have shown a great amount of quality which we could not have expected."

amount of quality which we could not have expected."

And this is from a man who has twice, in consecutive years, won the Grand National Steeplechase, the blue ribbon of cross-country sport and the supreme test of a cross-country thoroughbred.

But it is not of the thoroughbred as the progenitor of race horses with which the farmer is interested. The thoroughbred, to the farmer, is useful as the progenitor of soundness, heroic blood, stamina, perfect assimilation and early maturity.

There does not seem to be any manner of doubt that there soon must come to be a practical realization of the value of the thoroughbred in America, and a consequent profitable market. The department of agriculture in Washington has joined hands with the war department in asking Congress for aid in sending throughout the country the best types of the thoroughbred to be mated with farmers mares at a nominal fee. The animal industry bureau of the department of agriculture has recommended a grant of $250,000 for the purchase of these stallions and $100,000 a year to send out and maintain these sires.

It is proposed that, as a beginning, ten sires and $100,000 a year to send out and maintain these sires.

It is proposed that, as a beginning, ten sires should be sent to Maine and New Hampshire; fifty to Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tenessee, Indian and Ohio; fifteen to Missouri and Texas, and twenty-five to Montana, Washington, Oregon and worked along easily, Ella Bryson—Half mile in 1:46. ropean country with the exception of England, has for years been encouraging the breeding of the proper type of remount. England, one of the most important horse countries in the world, has for many reasons only recently been forced to take this step. It is interesting to note that practically the same conditions confront England that contront this country at the present time, and almost identical steps are contemplated in the Anglo-Saxon countries to accomplish the same results—suitable army horses in sufficient number.

"The horses of our mounted branch are severely criticized by representatives of foreign armies, while from our own officers come reports of poor animals and poor performances."

It is precisely with the horse as it is with all other animals. A return to the basic blood that has been uncontamminated must result in the enrichment of that which has gone to it. When kept pure, as it has been in the case of the thoroughbred, it always must impress itself.—John Boden, in King Horse, published by the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding.

FINALLY ON PAYING BASIS

RACING AT JUAREZ SURVIVES HARD KNOCKS AND NOW IS PROSPERING.

Yesterday's Attendance Affected by Chilly Weather-Five Favorites Win and Layers Have Unprofitable Day-Lackrose Again a Winner.

El Paso, Tex., December 13.—Chilly weather conditions and a card devoid of special feature-served to reduce the Juarez attendance below the normal figure this afternoon. Speculation was quite brisk, however, and the majority of the races were extremely well contested.

The feature, if it could be so termed, was the fourth race, a mile and an eighth selling affair, which was won by Lackrose by a scant length from Rompie, with Dutch Rock third. The Yanke entry made every post a winning one and at no time except near the finishing line, was he ever closely pressed. Rompie made a gallant effort in the final hundred yards, but could get no nearer than three parts of a length.

Five favorites scored and the layers had anything but a profitable afternoon.

A. D. Morley reached here from Latonia with six horses, W. J. Spiers also came in late this afternoon with Labold, Patruche, Jack Rain and three others from Latonia.

New York, December 13.—A letter received from J. G. Follansbee, the newly elected president of the Jockey Club Juarez, speaks of the present meeting at Juarez in glowing terms. Mr. Follansbee writes: "We are running on a paying basis for the first time since the course was opened in 1999. A club patterned after the Saratoga Reading Room has been organized, and it is much appreciated by the horsemen. The two new hotels in El Paso are almost completed and will be opened before the season is over. A new theater has been built and performances are given nightly. Horsemen and racing folk are welcomed in Mexico. Citizens and officials of the state want the meeting prolonged, and would like to have the horsemen and horses remain in the republic."

republic."

What the Juarez management desires most of all just now is the encouragement of American racing men. If the association is successful in a financial way the value of siakes and purses at this track will be increased. Since its organization the association has lived up to every obligation and continued its meetings in the face of unheard of obstacles.

THE GREATNESS OF MORTEMER.

Many have been surprised at reading that Lord Coventry believes Mortemer, winner of the Ascot Cup of 1871, was the best horse that ever was foaled, and was supported in that view by Admiral Rous. A big, overgrown horse, he took a long time to ripen, but when he won the Ascot Cup he was in indeed a smasher. He stood seventeen hands high, and was equally good over any course, no matter town long or short. The number of horses of this class that Count de Lagrange, who was the greatest owner of our time, bred was extraordinary, as, in addition to Mortemer, which ran in the name of M. Lefevre, were Gladiateur, Verneuil, Chamant, Henry, Trocadero and Rayon d'Or. Mortemer had the action of a pony, and, big as he was, loved to hear his feet rattle. It was the rain that fell overnight, converting the Roodeye into a bog, that lost him the Chester Cup. He was trying to give over three stone to the four-year-old Glenlivat, and was second. Congratulating M. Lefevre on another great performance on the part of Vulcan, he metaphorically waived him contemptuously aside: "Ah, he is nossing. Wait till you see my Mortemare." We waited, and so it did others. It was in a sweepstakes on the T. Y. C. that we saw him, and he had to meet Normandy, which had run second for the Two Thousand Guineas, and Typhoeus, one of the fastest horses of his time. For all that 6 to 4 was laid on Mortemer, and on the same commanding scale. He came to hand much carlier. As he walked round the Birdcage before being saddled for the Two Thousand Guineas he struck everyone. "You don't need to ask what will win this race," said Tom Corns; "look at that chap." Slivlo was by no means a common-looking horse, but Chamant stood clean out from the lot.—London Sporting Times.

SARATOGA FEELS LACK OF RACING.

Saratoga, N. Y., December 13,—George A. Wheelock has sold his property at 190 Union avenue to J. A. P. Ketchum. The Wheelock property was one of the show places of Union avenue during the days of racing prosperity, and when the sport thrived it was the scene of many elaborate house parties. Stimated within a few blocks of the course of the Saratoga Association, it is in one of the most delightful stretches of the beautiful avenue and its passing from Mr. Wheelock marks another racing desertion of the village.

There have been several other sales since the failure to pass the Gittins bill at the last session of the Legislature, but none of the importance of the Wheelock transfer. Many of the summer residences are on the market; but the market is not as brisk as it was when racing was the annual attraction at the Springs.

WILLIAM GARTH'S YEARLINGS AT BENNING.

Washington, D. C., December 13.—William Garth will winter a big band of yearlings at the old Benning track of the Washington Jockey Club, and he believes he has a likely lot of coming two-year-olds. At any rate, nothing shown at the Benning course has worked as swiftly as two of his Glorifier colts and a son of Hermis and Estimate that he recently bought from Anthony L. Aste,

The fastest of the Glorifier colts is out of Glad Tidings (she a daughter of Knight of the Thistle). This fellow has worked a quarter over the Columbia Course at Benning in better than 24 seconds. He is a lusty, big-bloned chestnut that Mr. Garth purchased from the Hancocks of Ellerslie Farm in Virginia.

a lusty, big-loned chestnut that Mr. Gerts perhased from the Hancocks of Ellerslie Farm in Virginia.

Glorifier, winner of the Carter and Metropolitan Handicaps of 1907 and the best Hastings that came to the races ahead of Fair Play, is now at the head of the Ellerslie Stud, he having taken the place of the deceased Fatherless. The breeders of Virginia are greatly pleased with Glorifier, whose book for the coming breeding senson was filled some time ago. The Hancocks have Glorifier under lease from James H. McCormick, who developed the son of Hastings for Louis V. Bell. They have another promising young stock horse in Celt, son of Commando and Maid of Erin, under lease from James R. Keene. Celt won the Brooklyn Handicap and the Jockey Club Weight for Age Race of 1908 under the spotted jacket of the vice-chairman of the Jockey Club, and he is rated by horsemen as second only to Colin among the great sons of Commando. Mr. Garth, who has many good producing mares at Ingleside, says he will not maintain a stallion at his place as long as Glorifier and Celt remain at Ellerslie.

The Hermis colt in the Garth string at Benning, which has worked so well, is from a half-sister to Compute and Accountant. He is a big-bodied little fellow with a quick turn of speed and a level head and suggests his distinguished sire in many ways. He is bigger than Hermis was as a two-year-old. Mr. Garth will winter the string of C. C. Smithson at Benning. Theodore Coles recently turned the Smithson horses over to Lewis Garth at Norfolk, and that successful young trainer shipped them here.
